

NEWS ABOUT PEOPLE ON MACKINAC ISLAND

—BY JEANNETTE DOUD—

she is doing great and enjoying her studies. Allison Jones, daughter of Donna and Larry of Grand Ledge, is a high school senior this year and will be in college next year.

At around 4:30 a.m. Monday, October 3, thunder and lightning, accompanied by heavy winds, caused a bit of a scare while it lasted. Fortunately, little damage was done. Surrounding areas were hit much harder.

Barbara and Brian Hellis closed their home on Market Street and left for their winter home in Northville. They were driving to Baltimore Thursday to visit friends.

Johnny Mayorov returned to Mackinac Island Sunday, August 28, where he sang gospel and played piano at the French Outpost. He journeyed up the hill to stay for the weekend at his favorite place, Grand Hotel. Once again, he entertained the hotel guests Tuesday, August 30, in the main dining room. Johnny can't wait to return, bringing others to this beautiful Island.

After six years of summer residency on the Island, Terry and Kelly Rayment are very happy to return to Mackinac, where they've decided to make their year-around home. They hope to return to Grace Cottage at the north gate of Stonebrook in mid-October and are extremely eager to enjoy sunsets on the porch and the fellowship of their fellow Islanders at Ste. Anne's parish.

Welcome to Mackinac, Bruce Bentgen and Dr. Glenn Heynig of Harbor Springs, who enjoyed attending the antique show at Grand Hotel. They always make it an annual visit.

It's Monday night, October 3, just another warm evening. The sunset was very spectacular to the west with clouds trimmed in silver overhead. Many senior citizens are having a great time at Grand Hotel.

Congressman Bart Stupak and his wife, Laurie, attended the football game between Michigan State and the University of Michigan Saturday, October 1, in East Lansing and came to Mackinac later to spend the weekend at Grand Hotel.

Mike and Wendy Young of Frankenmuth and Mackinac were seen having an enjoyable time at the antique show.

Andrew Doud was on the Island over the weekend, returning to Detroit Monday, October 3. He will return to attend the Shanku/St. Onge wedding at Ste. Anne's Saturday, October 8.

Eli Urman, a student at Alma College, and Josh Carley, from Saginaw Valley State University, were at the big game in East Lansing Saturday, October 1.

Patty and Brian Schoenborn spent the weekend in Grand Rapids, where they attended the baptism of Brian's new niece. They also visited Patty's sister, Peggy, who is a music teacher in Grand Rapids.

The Little Stone Church celebrated its final service of the season Sunday, October 2, by inviting members of Trinity Episcopal Church to join them. Pastor Vince Carroll and his wife, Molly, left Monday for their winter home in Florida. After leaving the Island, Molly received word that her sister-in-law had passed away in Massachusetts. Island friends send deepest sympathy to Molly.

A service for the late Patty Gallagher will be held Friday, October 7, at Ste. Anne's with Father Rey Garcia officiating.

A very happy Halloween display of smiling pumpkins can be seen welcoming guests to the Market Street Inn.

Many of Jim Chambers' horses have left the Island and are now in the pasture at his farm near Sault Ste. Marie. They looked fat and healthy after the summer on the Island.

The Bart Huthwaites departed their Island cottage Monday, leaving for their winter home in Florida. Their friend, Nancy Marstiller, who worked this summer at the French Outpost, returned to her Detroit residence.

Donations are needed for the annual Christmas Bazaar to be held Saturday, December 3, through Monday, December 5. They may be left or sent to the Mackinac Island Medical Center, where they will be greatly received.

Muffin Ernster has been enjoying her cottage in Hubbard's Annex, where she was joined by her son, Michael, and his family.

The Dean Schulers of Ann Arbor spent the weekend at their cottage in Hubbard's Annex.

The marina had many yachts moored over the weekend, reminding one of the good old summertime.

It was a very busy weekend, with hotels and bed and breakfasts filled. As long as the summer-like weather continues, many are visiting the Island each day. Shops and restaurants will remain open until the closing of Grand Hotel Sunday, October 23. Open late in the season and throughout the winter months are the Mustang Lounge, Village Inn, and Irish Pub.

Happy wedding anniversary to Patty and Bruce LaPine October 6.

A very happy birthday October 7 to our good friend,

Carol Clifton, of Muncie, Indiana. Have a wonderful day, Carol. We enjoyed seeing you and Max in September. Come again soon.

Happy wedding anniversary to Nancy and Brad Chambers October 6. They're making their winter home in Petoskey.

Virginia McIntyre Riordan will be celebrating her birthday October 10 and we wish her the best ever at her home in Marietta, Georgia. She and her husband, Dan, spent a very fun summer on Mackinac. We miss them so much and so does Bushy. Wonderful memories of Windermere Dog House and golf games at the Little Jewel.

Happy birthday October 13 to Alex Gillespie, who is now employed in Florida.

Frank and Agnes Wood of De Pere, Wisconsin, were guests of the Windermere Hotel Sunday and Monday.

Autumn is one of the nicest times of the year on Mackinac. Just to ride up and through the trails and roads with the peace and quiet and the changing colors of the leaves. A beautiful spot is at Point Lookout looking down on Sugar Loaf, surrounded by magnificent colors. It is truly a breathtaking sight for everyone to enjoy.

A big 50th birthday October 10 to Kathy Wightman of St. Ignace. Kathy loves Mackinac
